Close to Bure, a place of emancipation and anti-nuclear mobilisation, the idea of building a mobile sauna, in order to take better care of each other. This care space will be for the use of those who live in the area and/or who are fighting against the radioactive waste burial project CIGEO.

The South Meuse will not suffer the desertification programmed by the State. We, the many people involved in this struggle (peasants, artisans, artists, barmaids, autonomous workers, electricians, bricklayers, parents, etc.) are participating with others to maintain sustainable and cozy living spaces.

The struggle here in Bure is beautiful, although sometimes harsh, it is this context that forces us to build long lasting tools to take care of each other.

In view of the construction of this mobile sauna, la transpi invites you to a three-week work camp from 8 to 28 May, in Mandres-en-barrois!

The collective work will take place from Monday to Friday so the plan is (if you can) to come for a full week at least. Also, for logistical reasons we have set a limit of 20 people per week.

Additionally, various workshops and discussions around care will take next to the workcamp. Especially during week 2, for which a programme is already planned! Feel free to come with your own proposals.

Let's get together to build, learn share our experiences and practices of care, so that our fights are opportunities to make us stronger and more serene. See you soon!
